

A Home For You USA: Launches New Mexico Initiative

Introducing A Common Sense Solution That's Long Overdue, One That Can Start Making A Difference Within Weeks.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. - March 28, 2024 - PRLog -- A Home For You USA, Launches Initiative to Address Homelessness And The Low-Income Housing Shortage Crisis in Albuquerque, New Mexico

A Home For You USA, a nonprofit organization dedicated to providing sustainable housing solutions for low-income individuals and families is proud to announce the launch of its latest initiative in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

A Home For You USA is implementing Phase One by bringing two completed container homes, fully furnished, to Albuquerque. They will be set up as showroom model homes. These model homes will serve as a tangible representation of the organization's commitment to addressing the low-income housing shortage with quality homes.

"We are excited to bring our container homes initiative to Albuquerque," said Tom Mitchell, Founder and Executive Director of A Home For You USA. "These model homes will provide a full-size, real-life look at the quality, design and livability of our container homes."

A Home For You USA is proud to join forces with Backcountry Containers and Bloxx Building, both leaders in the field of modular construction, to further its mission of providing affordable housing solutions for low income individuals and families.

Jon Meier, President at Backcountry Containers, said, "Backcountry Containers is excited to work with A Home For You USA to provide modular housing solutions in New Mexico. Together, we're not just building container houses; we're creating homes where individuals and families can thrive. We're committed to delivering cost-effective, high-quality container homes that not only address the pressing need for affordable housing but also exemplify modern design and functionality."

Mitchell also stated he is working closely with Gary Boyd, Real Property Agent II, at The Real Property Division, which provides real estate services for the City of Albuquerque. Their communications have centered around locating city owned lots for sale.

Brittany Kahler, CEO of Bloxx Building, in Saucier, MS met with Mitchell, and had this to say: "Bloxx Building is excited to be involved with A Home For You USA! When Tom first approached us with his idea, we knew that his vision aligned with one of our goals - to give back and help others. Container homes offer a robust and affordable solution to the housing crisis we face across the country. That's one of the major reasons we started our company in the first place."

The showroom model homes will be open for tours to donors, politicians, citizens and of course to the people that will be renting them. Visitors will have the opportunity to see firsthand the quality and functionality of this sustainable housing solutions.
